Leaders send Veterans Day thanks

Deborah Lee James

Secretary of the Air Force

Gen. Mark A. Welsh III

Air Force Chief of Staff

Chief Master Sgt. James A. Cody

Chief Master Sgt. of the Air Force

To the Men and Women of the United States Air Force:

On this Veterans Day, we honor those great Americans who truly put service before self. In the crucible of conflict, patriotic Americans find that their differences melt away, leaving only their love of country uniting them in selfless service. Because of their willingness to put themselves in harm's way for others, our Nation has remained proud and powerful for generations. From the early days of combat aviation, Airmen have demonstrated the courage and sacrifice that accompany service to America.

When President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed the first Armistice Day in 1919, he urged Americans to be filled "with solemn pride in the heroism of those who died in the country's service and with gratitude for the victory." Later, the holiday was extended to honor veterans of all wars. Even today, the ranks of American veterans continue to grow as Airmen serve alongside their fellow Americans in support of operations in Afghanistan, the Middle East and throughout the world.

For some veterans, their service will be a brief, but proud and memorable period in their personal histories. For others, the effects of their service will extend their sacrifice for a lifetime. Some veterans have suffered visible wounds while others have wounds that remain unseen. Regardless of the nature of their sacrifice, all veterans are worthy of our eternal gratitude, respect and commitment.

This Veterans Day, remember your brother and sister Airmen and Americans who continue to preserve our freedom. We salute you for your service and celebrate the victories you have earned for our Nation.

Lachmund Drive construction update

The second phase of the Lachmund Drive construction project near the Child Development Center begins Nov. 20. The road will be closed past the entrance of the CDC to the entrance to 19th Logistics Readiness Squadron bulk fuels storage area. Visitors to agencies on the east side of the base, including bulk fuels, the recycling center, the munitions storage area and the 19th Security Forces Squadron firing range, can travel through the 189th Airlift Wing campus via Wassom Road to Marshall Road. Access to the CDC is possible via the newly paved portion of Lachmund Drive off of Vandenberg Boulevard.

SCORECARD: 314TH AIRLIFT WING

The 314th Airlift Wing is the nation's C-130 "Center of Excellence." The wing is responsible for training C-130 aircrew members from across the Department of Defense, to include the Coast Guard and 46 allied nations. Some of the ways the 314th AW tracks its successes are through measured aircraft availability and mission-capable rates. Those metrics as of Tuesday are:

Health Promotions: New name, same great service

By Senior Airman Stephanie Serrano

19th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

The Health and Wellness Center has officially changed its name to Health Promotions. The name change better encompasses what this center can offer to service members, their families and retirees.

"It's not about the name, but rather the services provided to Airmen and their families," said Jeffery Vaughn, 19th Aerospace Medicine Squadron health promotions director. "We answer to both names here."

Major programs such as Vital 90 and Nutrition Counseling continue to be offered.

Vital 90 is offered 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday-Friday and at 6 p.m. Monday-Thursday. Classes have been added at 11 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursdays.

However, due to recent staffing cuts, the services provided at Health

Team Little Rock members work out during the 3 p.m. Vital 90 class Nov. 4 at Little Rock Air Force Base. Vital 90 is a high-intensity group fitness program.

Promotions have been reduced. They no longer offer the shoe clinic, mobility clinic and physical training leader classes; however, there is a computer based training course for the PTL and Be Well class.

"Despite the recent changes to Health Promotions, we can still help Airmen, family members and retiree's through fitness, nutrition and health education," said Vaughn.

One new addition offered is Nutrition

Boot Camp using the Whole 30 Program. This is a 30-day clean-eating commitment for those who wish to participate. There is a private group on Facebook for participants to tap into for added support.

"Proper nutrition is the key for meeting fitness and healthy weight goals, maintaining good energy, and staying well," said Jill Hinsley, 19th Aerospace Medicine Squadron registered dietician.

In addition to nutrition counseling for individuals and families, Hinsley also provides large- and small-group nutrition education for commander's calls or other on-base interest groups. Another avenue available for people is body fat testing which is by appointment only.

Health Promotions' Facebook page, Little Rock AFB HAWC, is full of resources for fitness, nutrition and health information. Healthy recipe suggestions are available on their Pinterest page at www.pinterest.com/lrafbhawc

Airmen, soldiers survive, evade

An Air Force C-17 aircrew assigned to the 305th Air Mobility Wing at Joint Base McGuire-Dix-Lakehurst, N.J., head toward an intermediate staging base in Alexandria, La., on Nov. 5. The Airmen met with soldiers and loaded the aircraft with Army vehicles as part of GREEN FLAG Little Rock 16-02.

Air Force Capt. Jeffrey Johnson, left, and Air Force 1st Lt. Jesse Behning, 40th Airlift Squadron C-130J pilots from Dyess Air Force Base, Texas, watch for simulated enemy threats from a UH-60 Black Hawk on Nov. 5 near Fort Polk, La. The GREEN FLAG exercise emphasized joint readiness training between Airmen and soldiers, both in the sky and on the ground.

Air Force Capt. Jeffrey Johnson, a 40th Airlift Squadron C-130J pilot from Dyess Air Force Base, Texas, uses a compass to determine his crew's location Nov. 5 at Fort Polk, La. Johnson was with Air Force and Army aircrews during a survival training exercise during GREEN FLAG Little Rock 16-02.

In deployed environments, Airmen often travel on Army aircraft and soldiers are often transported via Air Force aircraft, but GFLR 16-02 was the first time members from both branches trained together on a worst-case scenario: an aircraft crash behind enemy lines.

Planners from the 34th Combat Training Squadron at Little Rock Air Force Base, Arkansas, developed a realistic, joint training exercise to practice combat airlift capabilities, intelligence, tactics and survival skills.

A C-130J aircrew from Dyess, Air Force Base, Texas, worked with 82nd Airborne Division Black Hawk aviation soldiers from Fort Bragg, North Carolina, to hone survival, evasion, resistance and escape abilities.

The two aircrews found themselves stranded in the woods of Fort Polk, Louisiana, after a simulated Black Hawk crash. They teamed together to coordinate air support and extraction. They trekked to safety through mud, over streams and past oppositional forces.

Despite distinct differences in terminology and tactics, the Airmen and soldiers collaborated, communicated and coordinated extraction by friendly forces roughly 12 hours after the crash.

The 34th CTS plans to coordinate more unique joint SERE exercises for future editions of GFLR.

Green Flag Little Rock is not traditional training; it provides a complex classroom that uses worst-case scenarios to teach tactics and hone reaction skills for Combat Airlifters.

The 34th Combat Training Squadron is responsible for equipping Combat Airlifters with the skills needed for downrange success. Participants included: Dyess Air Force Base, Texas; Travis AFB, California; Joint Base McGuire-Dix-Lakehurst, New Jersey; Mississippi Air National Guard; and Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

Members practiced combat related events throughout the week such as: survival, evasion, resistance and escape training, aeromedical evacuation missions, airdrops and various offloading and loading of different aircraft.

Aircrews encountered dirt landing zones with low visibility, as well as airdrop missions with varying cargo loads. Loadmasters moved cargo they don't often load, including M2 Bradley tanks, howitzers and other Army assets. Loadmasters worked hand-in-hand with soldiers to load and secure these different assets.

The end result yielded improved crew and mission management, situational awareness, airspace compliance and weather planning operations needed in today's joint environment.

exercise was a combination of Air Force and Army units training and working together in multiple events such as off-loading aircraft with different types of cargo and equipment.

Quit like a champion

By Senior Airman Harry Brexel

19th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

As part of Warrior Health Month, the Air Force will observe the Great American Smoke out Event on November 19, 2015 to further help Airmen and families curb the habit.

The Air Force discourages the use of all tobacco products. Tobacco use degrades Air Force readiness, health and leads to health care costs.

"If the Air Force was a state, we would have the second lowest smoking prevalence in the nation," said Col. (Dr.) John Oh, the chief of health promotion for the U.S. Air Force Medical Support Agency.

Despite that fact, Little Rock Air Force Base currently has the highest percentage of reported tobacco users in Air Mobility Command with figures reaching over 25 percent.

Multiple resources are available to Team Little Rock members who are trying to quit.

"Beneficiaries can contact their on-base provider for tobacco cessation medications and in-person counseling," said Jeffery Vaughn, 19th Aerospace Medicine Squadron health and wellness flight chief. "The Arkansas Quitline is also available seven days a week, 24 hours a day at 1-800-QUIT-NOW."

Tobacco use is the leading cause of preventable death in the United States. According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, more than 10 times as many U.S. citizens have died prematurely from cigarette smoking than have died in all the wars fought by the United States during its history.

The best way to quit is through combining tobacco cessation medications and counseling.

"The average smoker loses 10 years of life compared with nonsmokers, but you can gain back all, or nearly all of these 10 years, if you quit now," said Oh. "We want all our wingmen to live long, healthy, productive lives and tobacco-free living is the cornerstone."

Tobacco users ready to quit are encouraged to consult with their healthcare provider or installation health promotion program or visit DOD's Quit Tobacco website at www.UGanQuit2.org.

COMMUNITY HAPPENINGS

Nov. 14

Join us for the first annual Run Like You've Been Stung 5K. Created by students in the Maumelle Middle National Honor Society and facilitated through the Maumelle Chamber of Commerce Educational Committee, this 5K is more than just a race. Groups of business leaders mentor young trailblazers on the importance of marketing, sales, business and teamwork to create this great race. Working side by side with students this fun run event is designed to promote community wellness and pride. The 5K course begins and ends at Maumelle High School Stadium and winds through the industrial park of Maumelle. Gather co-workers, family and friends too! Visit www.maumellechamber.com for more information.

Nov. 20-21

The 38th Annual Holiday Craft and Gift Sale will be from 2 to 8 p.m. Nov. 20 and 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Nov. 21 at the Jacksonville Community Center. Purchase original works of art and unique gifts from Arkansas artists and vendors from surrounding areas. Handmade creations include woodwork, paintings, jewelry, holiday decor and more. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for children ages 12-18. Admission is free for those who donate a new, unopened and unwrapped to the event's toy drive. Call 982-4171 for more information.

Firing range off-limits

The 19th Security Forces Squadron Combat Arms firing range complex and surrounding area are off limits to all unauthorized personnel.

Those requiring access to the range area must contact the range office in Bldg. 1389 for permission. For more information, call the Combat Arms section at 987-1350 or 987-1351.

Booster Club Opportunity

Community groups can raise funds for their worthy causes while spreading some holiday cheer as the LRAFB Exchange is actively soliciting partners for the Army & Air Force Exchange Service's annual community gift wrap program. "To make the holidays a little easier, we partner with local groups to ensure gifts purchased at the Exchange are wrapped up before they even leave the store," said general manager Al Fuentes. "Beyond offering a one-stop solution for busy military shoppers, this effort also helps raise money for local military support initiatives."

During peak holiday seasons, the LRAFB Exchange sets up tables and provides supplies that community volunteer groups can use to wrap gifts in exchange for donations.

Interested organizations can contact the Base

Exchange at 501-988-1180 for information on scheduling a time to participate.

'Your Holiday Bill Is On Us'

The Army & Air Force Exchange Service is making holiday wishes come true for military shoppers by picking up the tab on their Military Star card up to $8,200 with the "Your Holiday Bill Is On Us" sweepstakes.

From Nov. 1 through Dec. 31, shoppers will be automatically entered in the worldwide sweepstakes each time they use their Military Star card to pay for purchases at the Little Rock AFB Exchange or on shopmyexchange.com. Each transaction counts as one entry. Three grand-prize winners will receive their Military Star card bill paid in full up to $8,200 with a minimum prize of $2,500. Ten second-prize winners will be awarded a $1,000 credit on their Military Star card statement, while 25 third-place winners will earn a $500 credit. Winners with a balance less than their prize amount will receive a credit on their account.

"With this sweepstakes, the Exchange is making dreams come true and changing lives," said General Manager, Al Fuentes. "Just one swipe of a Military Star card is all it takes to enter." Winners of the "Your Holiday Bill Is On Us" sweepstakes will be announced on or about Jan. 30.
